

JOB SPECIFICATION

JOB TITLE:	Senior North American Natural Gas Reporter
REPORTS TO:	Bureau Chief
DIRECT REPORTS:	-
DEPARTMENT:	Editorial
LOCATION:	Washington, DC, or Houston, TX – Hybrid
STATUS:	Permanent, Full-Time
	The candidate must have the right to work in the US.

COMPANY

Energy Intelligence is an independent provider of energy and geopolitical insights, analysis, data and research. The company's reputation has been built on uncompromised independent analysis from access to primary sources of information and data. The Information Services, Data Analytics and Research & Advisory teams provide a unique platform and an integrated approach, which equips clients with differentiated value-added services vital to those in the energy industry. With over 60 years of expert energy coverage, Energy Intelligence is the standard to navigating today's obstacles and taking advantage of tomorrow's opportunities.

Energy Intelligence has offices in eight locations around the world: London, New York, Washington, Houston, Dubai, Beirut, Singapore and Moscow.

OVERVIEW

The position involves producing original news and analysis on the North American natural gas market and related industry developments affecting producers, pipelines and liquefied natural gas (LNG) exports. We are looking for an experienced, resourceful and energetic reporter with strong experience covering US gas markets. He or she should also be able to work independently with little supervision, and to find and develop original news and feature story ideas that will help differentiate Energy Intelligence from its competitors. Some editing duties will also be involved.

KEY RESPONSIBILITIES

- Work as part of team writing forward-looking daily and weekly features on a range of topics involving the natural gas sector in the US and Canada. This will include both markets, with a focus on how cash and futures trends are impacting supply, demand, exports and related issues, and general industry and corporate developments.
- Cultivate productive relationships with North American gas analysts, experts and industry sources to add depth and insight about market trends;
- Provide regular editing assistance to the editor of our weekly gas publication, Natural Gas Week, including filling in as the primary editor as needed to cover holidays or absences.

- Act as a subject matter expert in conferences, webinars, podcasts and videos.

As part of a growing and dynamic team, you may also be required to carry out any other duties that may reasonably be required of you.

Some travel required.

SKILLS/EXPERIENCE

- Three to five years' experience of covering energy commodity markets, preferably the North American natural gas sector.
- Comprehensive understanding of natural gas and financial terminology and concepts;
- A proven track record of breaking news;
- Strong analytical skills to gather information and spot and explain important trends;
- A love of primary source reporting;
- Excellent writing skills;
- The ability to prioritize and deliver daily, weekly and long-term assignments;
- Bachelor's degree or other relevant professional training/diploma or equivalent experience

This job description is not exhaustive and may be updated to reflect relevant changes in line with business requirements.

Energy Intelligence is an Equal Opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity, disability or protected veteran status. Energy Intelligence will not discharge or in any manner discriminate against applicants or employees because they have enquired about, discussed, or disclosed their own pay or the pay of another applicant or employee. Nothing in this job posting should be construed as an offer or guarantee of employment.